

2025

CCRC's Programs Help Families Thrive

Thanks to federal and state funding, CCRC ensures access to quality child care.

Funding from the California Department of Social Services (CDSS) and California Department of Education (CDE) increases access to quality child care for eligible low-income families. Children receive care in a safe and healthy environment, engage in nurturing interactions with child care providers and participate in developmentally appropriate activities.

Access to Care

Finding and paying for child care allows parents to work and children to learn.

Child care financial assistance
for over 38,000 families

Referrals to child care for 24,000 families

Employment and Financial Stability

The ability to gain or sustain employment is critical to a family's economic stability and advancement.

98% Accept a job

98% Maintain a stable home

98% Keep a job

96% Reduce financial stress

94% Accept a better job

94% Attend education or training

This program has helped me and my family in so many ways and thanks to this program I am able to keep a job and maintain a stable home for my child. If it wasn't for this program I would be lost in stress.

I am able to attend school full time and still hold a part time job. I am very thankful for the Child Care Resource Center. As a single parent I am able to pursue my education.

I love this program. It has relieved financial stress as a single mother working full time and having to pay the expensive cost of rent in these hard times.

I'm grateful for the program. I was able to go back to school while working and receive my license as a medical coder and billing specialist. I now have a dream job.

Child Safety and Happiness

99%

Parents felt their child was safe in program

99%

Parents felt their child was happy in program

I love how good the staff is with my son, it really makes it easier to send him each day and go on with my day knowing he's with safe adults that care. Also the amount of activities they do, are really great! I love it!

I am very grateful for all of the support I have received and the way my daughter has received individual care with needs specific to her.

I love this program. My children are safe and happy. Thankful to be able to work knowing they are being taken care of.

The program has helped me identify speech delays in my son's development and connect early intervention services to get him back on track.

This program is perfect. My daughter is improving with her talking. She's improved since she's first started, and how she's interacting with other children.

The program has shown so much care and love towards my child, that I know she will be safe and taken care of while we try to improve our lives.

Parents who receive child care financial assistance work in these industries:

Sales, service and marketing

Health science

Human services

Education and training

Transportation, distribution and logistics

Hospitality and tourism

Law, public safety, corrections and security

Finance

Government and public administration

Manufacturing

Business management and administration

Science, technology, engineering and mathematics

Information technology

Research shows that government subsidized child care increases employment and work hours.¹ Supporting child care ensures higher rates of employment, stronger businesses, thriving families and economically stable communities.

¹Morrissey, T.W. Child care and parent labor force participation: a review of the research literature. Rev Econ Household 15, 1–24 (2017). <https://doi.org/10.1007/s11150-016-9331-3>

For questions, please contact: Dr. Susan Savage, Director of Research Department at ssavage@ccrcca.org